

When I opened the front door,
the snow was sparkling with tiny stars...

Draw the magical moment, then continue the story.

My story picture

A large, empty rectangular box with rounded corners, intended for a child to draw a picture of the magical moment described in the story starter.

Who did you meet? Where did the stars lead?

What happened next?

A series of ten horizontal lines provided for the child to write the continuation of their story.

By: _____